Reading a novel by Angela Johnson is like reading a poem: you find yourself collecting favorite lines and images the way 13-year-old Bird catches fireflies. They linger and glow, and you let them go, knowing there will be more. Bird is a small book, one to savor. The novel, told in three alternating narratives, has four characters, each with a "heart problem."

Bird by Angela Johnson Lesson Plan | Study.com

Unfortunately, I think this is my least favorite book by Angela Johnson that I've read so far. As with all her other work, Bird is tender and well-intentioned but the characters were so underdeveloped and the ending so ridiculously abrupt that I could barely muster any interest in the whole thing. The main character is a 13-year-old girl named Bird who runs away from home to go find her errant stepfather and bring him back (always a strong likelihood of a success in that kind of situation.)
